SAYS STUDENTS ARE SLACKERS
Letter in Kansas City Star Criticizes Action of Tiger Team.

University of Missouri students come in for criticism in regard to their response to recruiting in a letter which appeared in the "Speaking the Public Mind" column of the Kansas City Star. The letter, signed "A University Man," follows:

"Lawrence, Kan.—To the Star: Can you explain the attitude of university men throughout the Middle West toward their country? If so, I would be glad to hear something in their favor.

"This present war and the trouble last summer has been a revelation to me. I thought that the men who was educated and had had advantages would be the first to come forward when the country called. Get the figures and you will find that seven to eight out of ten men at the University of Kansas and the University of Missouri are 'slackers.'

"I read in the Star that the entire baseball team at M. U. had voted to continue in school. Think of it—a whole team of men who are physically good, who have had some military training and who are needed by their country! I would like to have someone go over the names on the M. U. and K. U. football, baseball and track teams and see how many of these men have enlisted. These men are athletes, just the kind of men the country is crying for. The Missouri and Kansas guard regiments are working their heads off trying to fill up, and these men, the very pick of the schools, are 'slackers' pure and simple.

"It would not be right to pick athletes as the only men in our schools who are avoiding their duty. Take the Kansas University, for instance, and you will find that not one man in ten has enlisted. It is a curious situation, but not a new one. A Spanis-American War veteran, a university man himself, told me some time ago that it was a fact that in that war the men who went from this Middle West were not the men who had had real advantages—they were clerks and laborers in most part.

"Now, if someone can tell me why the men of education, men who should be the first to go, are the ones who are holding back, I will be very much obliged. They know that the first men in will be the first men to go to Europe, and they are holding off and asking that the clerks, laborers and mill hands do their fighting for them. They have taken the contemptible attitude of the 'slacker,' and the situation is beyond my power of comprehension."

W. Foreade, Once Student, Kills Self.
A former student of the University, W. Wood Foreade, 23 years old, committed suicide at his farm, near Clearmont, Thursday afternoon. Mr. Foreade was a member of the Farm House while a student here. He has been subject to spells of despondency and returned five weeks ago from a private sanitarium in St. Joseph. He had been married a short time.

Charles Harrison, the famous tenor, will sing at the concert of the Minneapolis Symphony concert in the University Auditorium May 10.

You can hear Mr. Harrison any time at Parker's Furniture Store on the Edison Diamond Disc Machine. We have his records and they are exact reproductions of his wonderful voice.

Miss Myrtle Parker, who is in charge of the music department, will be pleased to play any of the Edison records for you any time you pay us a visit.

Hear Mr. Harrison on the Edison before you hear him sing at the concert and judge for yourself if the Edison does not perfectly reproduce his voice with all its richness. There is something about hearing great singers reproduced on the Edison that satisfies that music hunger which we all have. The artists become your personal friends—you feel that you know them. They themselves really sing to you. You actually hear them first hand.
